The year is 2106 and the world has changed drastically. We live in a more civilized society with advanced technology and we've managed to create a perfect system of living on Earth. What begins as an innocent quest for knowledge triggers something that could bring humanity back to its pre-industrial era.

That is the basis for this sci-fi novel, "RPG ROBFEOY". It was originally written by Receptionist Rex Robinson even though it's been rewritten many times by several writers since then. The more recent versions of the story can be found online through Reddit, Imgur, 4chan, Tumblr... etc. These are all categorized as "Part 1" because there's been no official label of "Part 2" or anything like that. The latest "Part 1" can be found on Imgur and Reddit, which is constantly being updated by the author. The plot centers around a young man who has a strange dream involving a tower and a glowing orb. It's labeled as Part 1, Chapter 3: A Malevolent Tower, with the scene opening up to a musician with a guitar that goes by the name Cody Claymore at a friend's birthday party. All seems to be going well until he meets an old acquaintance named Trevor Johnson who desperately wants to catch up with him. Trevor invites Cody to take a flight with him up to his house which is located in the snowy mountains. Cody agrees and they head to the airport where they meet up with Trevor's best friend, a well-rounded individual named Isaac Clarke. The three board a plane and take off for Trevor's house, but there appears to be something wrong with their plane as it's falling apart mid-flight. They crash back down into the ocean and swim towards an island where they meet a strange young woman who leads them into a massive tower which could only be found once every four years. It is there that they hear about an organization known as RPG ROBFEOY who have been manipulating all of humanity from the very beginning of time itself. The grand organization is made up of seven people who are all called "chapters" or "partners." These chapters are arch-enemies of each other and they consist of four men (close friends) and three women (close sisters). They're all powerful individuals who hold secret knowledge that is supposedly used for good, but they were actually the ones who caused the fall of humanity. This group held great influence on Earth during the pre-industrial era. But it's not long before they start to corrupt all people with their dark powers and turn against their own kin, which eventually leads to catastrophe. The four men are labeled as the "stealth chapter" and they are kept secret from the public. Their identities can never be revealed or else it could mean major trouble. These four chapters consist of, in order; Receptionist Rex Robinson, Sculptor Chris Boyd, Illustrator Andrew Allan, and Musician Cody Claymore. The three women consist of two sisters who are also chapters, Rourou (the younger one) and Chourou (the older one), along with an orphaned girl named Lenka who is the only chapter to not be related to them by blood.
